'Twas thought the Project wou'd have fail'd,

CHARLES TOWN, June 14.

The Sloop May flower, Edward Jones Commander, fitted out at Jamaica with a Letter of Marque, sail'd on the 28th of February last from thence, to cut Logwood at Cape Catoche, being arrived at the said Cape, was surprized by a Ship and Schooner early in the Morning, who gave him Chase, but his Vessel being a very good Sailor he escaped them, in the mean time they mann'd the Ship's Lance with about 30 Hands, thinking to board the said Jones, but seeing his Guns, they return'd with more Speed than in coming, it being Night already Capt. Jones departed that Place, but his Men murmuring very much, he was obliged to return to see what the Ship mought be, his Men thinking she was a rich Merchant Ship under Convoy of the Schooner, he thereupon resolved to return and attack her, next Day he got in Sight of the Ship again, which immediately hoisted the King of Spain's Colours, whereupon Capt. Jones hoisted his Colours and saluted the Ship with a Broad side, the Ship return'd the Compliment, and after exchanging a few Shot to no Purpose, Capt. Jones resolv'd to come nearer, and then order'd Capt Cornuck to board her with 25 Men, but the Spaniards observing his Intention, took'd upon him, whereby Capt. Jones saw what Strength she was of, having 10 Guns run out on each Side, whereupon he thought it most proper (being all that Afternoon under the Command of the Ship's Guns) to make his Escape, the Ship being very high, most of the Shot went over Capt. Jones, so that he receiv'd but little Damage, he then sail'd for Logerhead Key, where he was no sooner arriv'd but he saw the Ship and Scooner still in Pursuit of him, but he again got away after a whole Day's Chase, he then sail'd for the Bay of Campeachy, and took between the said Bay and Guatsaqualpa a Spanish Pettiauger, laden with Salt Manuito, some time after he sail'd for the Island of Lobus, and on the 29th of April took a small Sloop off the said Island, laden with Salt; from thence he sail'd for the Bar of Tuspa, where he chased a large Sloop and run her on Shore on the said Bar, where her Bottom was beat out, he got nothing out of her of any Value only some Prisoners.

On the 5th of May, Capt. Jones took a Brigt off Tackaluta Bar, but the Men (true Spaniard like) left the Vessel, and made their Escape in their Lance. After the Taking of this Vessel Capt Jones put Capt. Cornuck on board, & told him that he would cruise off La Vera Cruz, and then sail for this Place. The said Cornuck arrived here on Tuesday last. The Prize taken off Lobus, Capt. Jones burnt, it being impossible to bring her to any English Port, she being leaky, and having but indifferent Sails and Rigging.
